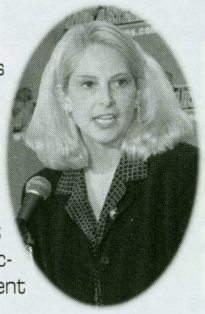
Dawn Of A New Era: New Coach, New Home

With the new 17,000 Comcast Center on the horizon for the 2002-03 season and first-year head coach Brenda Frese, the future has never looked brighter as a new era dawns for Maryland's women's basketball team.



The 2002 Associated Press National Coach of the Year, Frese comes to College Park after turning around a Minnesota program that was 8-20 in 2000-01 and leading it to a 22-8 record during 2001-02 campaign. Her noteworthy revitalization of the Gopher program came on the heels of a similar feat at Ball State, where she took the Cardinals to two back-to-back seasons for only the second time in school history. Terrapin fans are optimistic Maryland's return to glory is just around the corner under Frese, as the Terps hunt down their unprecedented ninth conference crown and a return to the NCAA tournament picture.

The scene for the beginning of the new era is the state-of-the-art Comcast Center, which will open its doors in time for the first tip of the 2002-03 season. 17,100 seats greet fans and foes in an arena complete with luxury boxes, eight-sided scoreboard, and team lockerroom and lounge areas. The 420,000 square-foot building will be the central hub of Maryland athletics, housing all of the athletic administration offices as well as most of the coaches' offices for Terrapins' 25 varsity sports.

Between the Comcast Center's opening and the Frese Era beginning at Maryland, the future has never held more promise or excitement. Welcome to a new era.

Brenda Frese

Head Coach • Arizona '93

First Year at Maryland
Fourth Year Overall

Brenda Frese has received high praise and numerous accolades during her young coaching career. People have described the 32-year-old head coach as dynamic, overachieving, determined and enthusiastic. The 2002 Associated Press National Coach of the Year, Frese has been a head coach for only three seasons, accumulating an astounding 57-30 (.655) record, while making amazing turnarounds her calling card.

This season, Frese looks to breathe life back into a Terrapin program that went 12-17 last season and finished eighth in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Athletics Director Debbie Yow couldn't have chosen a better candidate to succeed 27-year head coach Chris Weller than Frese, who after two previous head coaching positions seems poised to be the next legend to lead Maryland to the forefront of women's college basketball once again.

One of college basketball's rising stars, Frese fits with Maryland's legacy of success. At Minnesota, she earned AP National Coach of the Year honors as well as Big Ten Coach of the Year recognition for turning the Gopher's 8-20 program into a 22-8 Top 25 contender. One of the biggest one-season turnarounds in NCAA history, Minnesota set a school record with 22 wins and tied for second in the Big Ten with an 11-5 conference mark. Frese also took the Gophers to what was only the school's second NCAA appearance. The Golden Gophers were seeded fifth in the NCAA Tournament and defeated UNLV in the first round of the NCAA Tournament before being eliminated by three points in the second round by North Carolina, a team Frese will have a chance to go head-to-head with this season as part of the ACC slate.

Frese's revitalization of the Minnesota program rocked the Big Ten establishment, her team's 10-win improvement in conference play making the biggest one-year improvement in Big Ten history. Moreover, the 11 Big Ten wins were three more than Minnesota totaled in the previous six seasons combined. The Golden Gophers also achieved the highest ranking in school history when Minnesota was listed 14th in the Associated Press Top 25 in mid-February. The Golden Gophers were ranked 18th in the final regular season AP poll. Undoubtedly, Frese had arrived.

Frese started her head coaching career during the 1999-2000 season at Ball State, a program that had gone 66-169 in the nine seasons prior to her arrival, and guided the Cardinals to a 16-13 showing in 2000 and garnered Coach of the Year honors in the Mid-American conference. Frese led Ball State to a school-best 19-9 mark in 2000-01, capturing only the school's second back-to-back winning seasons in Ball State history. Her final year at Ball State, the 2000-01 team received votes in the AP poll, climbing as high as No. 28 in the country.

Frese's enthusiam has been contagious for the fans of her teams as well, as support increased significantly at both Minnesota and Ball State under her leadership. Buoyed by the best start (9-1) in school history last season, the Golden Gophers finished the season ranked 19th nationally in home attendance average (4,360), including an average of 8,828 fans during the second half of the campaign when the team moved to Williams Arena from the Sports Pavilion. The Gophers attracted the top four crowds in school history, including a record attendance of 12,142 vs. Michigan State and a crowd of 11,389 vs. Indiana. Frese's 2000-01 Ball State team posted a 10-2 home record and set a single-season home attendance record.

She launched her Division I coaching career in 1994 as an assistant coach at Kent State University, helping the Golden Flashes to records of 20-8 (1994) and 17-10 (1995) during her two years there. The Cedar Rapids, Iowa native then joined Bill Fennelly's staff at Iowa State as the Cyclones' recruiting coordinator where she assisted in another impressive turnaround, helping ISU to three NCAA Tournament appearances in four years. All told, the Cyclones posted a composite record of 84-38 with Frese as an assistant, including a 17-10 record in 1995-96 when Iowa State recorded the biggest one-season turnaround in school history. In 1997, the Cyclones made their first-ever appearance in the NCAA Tournament, a feat they duplicated in 1998 and 1999 with identical 25-8 records. In 1999, Iowa State was ranked among the nation's top 25 for the entire season and came within one victory of reaching the Final Four.

During her stay at Iowa State, her 1998-99 recruiting class was ranked among the nation's top 10, and the Cyclones enjoyed tremendous success at the gate, drawing a record crowd of 12,337 vs. Santa Clara in the first round of an NCAA Tournament game played in Ames, Iowa, and rewriting Iowa State's single-season attendance mark multiple times.

Frese is a 1993 graduate of the University of Arizona, where she was a four-year forward and three-year letterwinner for the Wildcats. When injuries sidelined her during her senior season, she joined the Pima Community College coaching staff in Tucson, Ariz., as an assistant coach in charge of recruiting and scouting. Aside from her bachelor's degree in communications from Arizona in 1993, she also earned a master's degree in athletic administration from Kent State in 1995.

Marsha Frese-Elliott

Assistant Coach • Rice '95

First Year at Maryland
Fourth Year Overall

Maryland women's basketball became a true "family affair" when Marsha Frese-Elliott joined the Terrapin staff as assistant coach and recruiting coordinator. Frese-Elliott, the sister of head coach, Brenda Frese, was hired in April and coordinates all recruiting efforts for Terrapin women's basketball. The sisters not only grew up and won a state high school championship together, they've also coached together at two previous stops: Minnesota and Ball State.

During her stay with the Golden Gophers, Frese-Elliott helped key one of the biggest turnarounds in women's NCAA history. Despite Minnesota's 8-20 record the previous season, Frese-Elliott coordinated efforts that brought in the No. 15 recruiting class according to Blue Star Basketball, including the state's Ms. Minnesota Basketball. Frese-Elliott also worked with the perimeter players at Minnesota, including third-team All-American and Big Ten player of the year, Lindsay Whalen. The Golden Gophers finished the 2001-02 season ranked seventh nationally in scoring and advanced to the second round of the 2002 NCAA tournament.

Frese-Elliott began her coaching career at Ball State where she served as assistant coach and recruiting coordinator for the Cardinals from 1999-2001. The position coach for forwards and centers, she helped guide Big Ten freshman of year Janel McCarville, and also led the Gophers' community service efforts. Minnesota experienced the biggest one-year turnaround in Big Ten history in Floyd's year there, going 22-8 after inheriting a program that had been 8-20 the previous season.

She called Cleveland State home from 1998-2001 and served the Viking program in all capacities. Mark Pearson

Preseason Outlook

Terps Enter New Era With Frese and Comcast Center

First-year head coach Brenda Frese has her work cut out for her this season, inheriting a program that went 12-17, finished eighth in the Atlantic Coast Conference standings and graduated five seniors from it's roster.

No stranger to taking over difficult situations, Frese is up for the challenge.

"It's definitely going to be a rebuilding period for us after losing five seniors," said Frese.""We're going to have to use this year to teach and coach fundamentals with so many young, inexperienced players. With that approach, we're really going to be able to start building the foundation of this program."

POSITION-BY-POSITION

Guards

Senior Renneika Razor, one of two returning Terrapin starters, will be asked to carry most of the load during the 2002-03 season with the departure of All-ACC guard and No. 7 all-time scorer Marché Strickland. Razor brings a dynamic, athletic presence showcased by quick hands on the steal and a slashing style down the lane. A 2002 ACC all-defense team choice, the New York native averaged 2.1 steals per game and returns as the Terps' top scorer (8.2 points per game) and rebounder (4.5 rebounds per game).

Joining Razor at the guard spot is fellow senior Terri Daniels. Daniels, a graduate of nearby St. Mary's in Annapolis, is one of the Terps' best three-point shooters in program history. Daniels sits at the No. 5 spot for 3-point field goals made (59) and attempted (150). She is also among the Terps' best ever in 3-point field goal percentage (.393).

Frese has stated the leadership of both senior guards, as well as classmate Brie Jackson will be a key part to developing such a young team.

Junior point guard Vicki Brick returns as the Terps' floor general and with increased shooting confidence, will be able to both distribute the ball as well as score points herself. Brick took her second tour of duty as Maryland's starting point guard last season after a one-year rehabilitation of a torn anterior cruciate ligament. Brick returned strong as ever, and remains one of the most physically fit Terps, which will benefit her on-court time.

Anesia Smith rounds out the Terps' guard rotation, which will be the team's strongest area this season. Smith exploded in her first two collegiate games, averaging 18.5 points per game and giving Terrapin fans a glimpse of her potential. With her quickness and agility, Smith will be one of the Terps' harassers on defense and will add to her shooting ability a slashing, penetrating angle to her game.

Renneika Razor

Centers

Playing at both forward and center is junior Crystal Washington. The six foot, two-inch Washington has shown marked improvement with increased playing time last season. With the departure of No. 6 all-time scorer and top 10 all-time rebounder Deedee Warley, she should see more court time than ever this season.

Past Washington's presence, the Terps' interior is a largely unknown commodity and will be Frese's biggest challenge. A trio of six-footers dawn Terps' uniforms this season for the first time: Charmaine Carr, Angel Ross, and Vanessa Ruffin.Six-foot, five-inch Carr should have the most impact, but all three will have to hit the ground running in order for the Terps to be successful this season in the incredibly competitive ACC.

Terri Daniels

Forwards

Joining Washington at the forward position, senior Brie Jackson rounds out her Terrapin career this season on the blocks. Jackson can provide most of the intangibles to the Terps and will need to be a leader for the transition to be a smooth one. New Jersey freshman Chrissy Fisher will, like Carr, need to develop quickly for the Terps. With the departure of four post players last season, Maryland's development into a complete team will hinge on the forward and center positions and how quickly the young players at those spots come along.

"I really think concentrating on the fundamentals is a step we want to take first and foremost with this group, especially being so young," commented Frese.

"Overall, I'm an offensive-oriented type of coach. I like to score a lot of points, which will definitely be our game plan eventually, but we may need to become more defense-oriented depending on the strengths of our team and how our incoming freshmen will be able to contribute as well."

SCHEDULE

In addition to the always-challenging ACC schedule, the Terrapins have a non-conference schedule complete with national powers and local rivals to round out their schedule.

"I'm excited that we have quite a few home games at the new Comcast Center, and to host our own tournament will be a big advantage," said Frese. "We've got a tough non-conference schedule, going to Penn State as well as playing Virginia Tech at home."

In addition to the Hokies and Nittany Lions, Maryland is Miami-bound after Christmas to the Gatorade Holiday Classic, which includes host Miami, Cleveland

State, and William & Mary. According to Frese, "Miami will be an extremely competitive tournament, and overall with our non-conference schedule, we're looking to build confidence within our team, trying to incorporate our system and seeing how quickly our players are able to adapt to the new system. It's a nice schedule because we'll have some games with people nearby like Loyola, UMBC, and Coppin State, so it'll be a good a mix of both local and national teams."

COMCAST CENTER

The setting for the 2002-03 season will be the state-of-the-art 17,100 seat Comcast Center. Maryland's new on campus facility will rival any in the ACC with new lockerroom, training room, and lounge facilities, administration and coaches' offices, and countless amenities that will benefit both the players and the fans.

"It's an exciting era, building the foundation of this program with this coaching change and opening this season in the Comcast Center, which is a state-of-the-art facility," said Frese.

"It's going to be one of the most prominent facilities in the country and I'm just excited about opening up this brand new season with all the changes in a brand new facility."

Weller Retires After 27 Years

Only the second head coach in Maryland women's basketball history, Chris Weller retired on March 5, 2001 with 499 wins during her 27-year tenure at Maryland, becoming one of the nation's winningest coaches in the game and leaving the Terrapins with a rich legacy to build on.

Chris Weller

During her career, Weller made 10 Sweet 16 appearances, eight Elite 8 appearances, and three Final Four appearances en route to being ranked in the Top 25 all-time for coaching wins. Her Terps captured an unprecedented eight ACC championships, and she garnered Naismith National Coach of the Year and BWAA Coach of the Year honors in 1992.

Weller was twice named the ACC Coach of the Year during her career, once in 1989 and 1992. She coached four All-Americans and eight ACC Tournament MVPs during her tenure at Maryland and her 1992 team was ranked No. 1 in the nation.

Several Terrapins picked up ACC honors in 2002, including senior guard Marché Strickland , who was named third-team All-ACC. Senior forward Deedee Warley received honorable mention All-ACC honors, just missing the third team by two votes. Junior Renneika Razor received honors on the all-defense team and Anesia Smith was named honorable mention all-freshman. For Strickland, the honor was her second All-ACC accolade; it was Warley's second as well. Razor and Smith each received their first ACC honors with their selection.

Closing the Doors On Cole Field House

Maryland officially closed Cole Field House as a women's basketball venue at UM on Feb. 21, 2002, during a postgame ceremony, which symbolically gave the building back to the Maryland student body. Cole Field House bears a rich history of milestones and memories for the Maryland program and women's basketball in general.
